SOMETHING GOOD

Zoë Lustri shocked the world when she released her debut single Something Good. A song that a random Indie blog once said “[sounds] absolutely great, but unfortunately I feel it sounds a little too commercial for my playlist”. Something Good features strong, prominent vocals exploring introspective lyrics as a conversation on depression while giving a sonic palette that is both ambient, cinematic, and driving. With an impressive 227 Instagram followers and 44 Spotify followers, Zoë Lustri is a musical force to be reckoned with. Her single Something Good was succeeded with her song Feeling It Now, and other future songs to follow.

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Zoë Lustri is an indie singer-songwriter from Austin, Texas. She loves to write music and hates to write bios. She did school at Berklee College of Music and learned things. She moved to LA and worked in the film music industry where she quickly learned that she doesn't have the time or personality for fake niceties. But, guess what? She still likes writing songs and collaborating with other artists, producers, mixers, writers, or pretty much anyone who is in it for the love of creating.

HEAR WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

“We think this song would be AMAZING if it was a little faster”

- Paula Pierce, Zoë's Mom

“It's good, I like it”

- Adamo di Giorgio, Zoë's Husband
